Dr. Andrea Bowens-Jones

Speaker • Coach • Trainer • STEM Diversity & Inclusion Leader

Dr. Andrea, a Ph.D. polymer chemist by training, is a former Procter & Gamble (P&G) Research & Development Director. She has managed multi-discipline teams of scientists and engineers to drive technology, formulation, and process development for top personal care brands such as Secret, Old Spice, and Gillette. While at P&G, she developed the Resident Scholar Program (RSP), a unique job-shadowing program for minority youth interested in careers in STEM (Science Technology Engineering and Math). RSP, her legacy, has impacted hundreds of minority students who credit their decision to pursue a STEM degree to participation in the program.

After over 15 years, Dr. Andrea left her corporate job to pursue her passion of diversity & inclusion in STEM and professional development. As President/CEO of IDG Vision, LLC and Certified John Maxwell Coach, Speaker, & Trainer, Dr. Andrea inspires, develops, and grows the vision inside of her clients. She delivers customized coaching, mastermind groups, and workshops; specializing in personal growth, leadership, and effective team communication. Dr. Andrea continues to impact diversity in STEM as a consultant working with organizations such as Women In Technology (Atlanta, GA), National Center for Women & Information technology (Boulder, CO) and the International Consortium for Minority Cybersecurity Professionals (ICMCP).

Dr. Andrea has worked with leadership teams across multiple sectors, including the education system, government and both non- and for-profit organizations, providing professional development, personality assessments and coaching services. She is an alum of Leadership Rockdale (2017) and recipient of the James P. Culpepper Volunteer of the Year Award for her role in the creation of the WE3 Women's Conference, sponsored by the Conyers-Rockdale Chamber of Commerce. She is also an alum of Women Excel Leadership Program (2009) sponsored by the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce and the recipient of numerous awards for her work engaging youth in STEM. Dr. Andrea has shared her story of faith and personal growth as a keynote speaker at women's conferences and as a guest on "Strategic Minds: Making Money Moves," Atlanta Business Radio X, "About Women in Business" KBCN Voice and numerous podcasts.

In April 2018, Dr. Andrea launched her e-book, Breathe Again: A Guide to Living a Life of Limitless Possibilities. Designed to be a 4-part journey in personal growth and accountability, Breathe Again is for anyone who has felt like they're gasping for air while being trapped in their 9 to 5. It's now available on Amazon.
